

Features

Standing guard: new systems keep watch over tactical bases 60

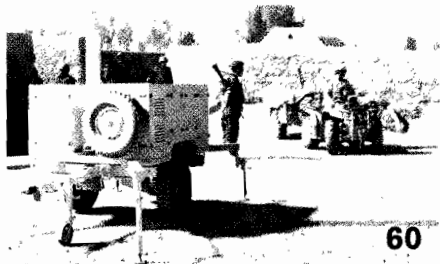

BY GILES EBBUTT

Rising to the challenge at sea: UAVs adapt and hit the maritime 66

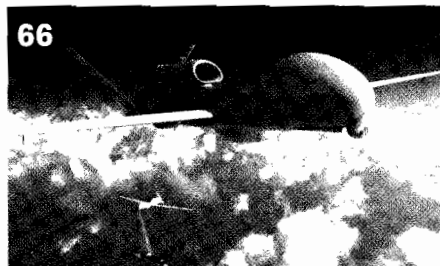

BY THE IDR TEAM

Suite solutions: dynamic DASs offer helicopters light-speed protection 72

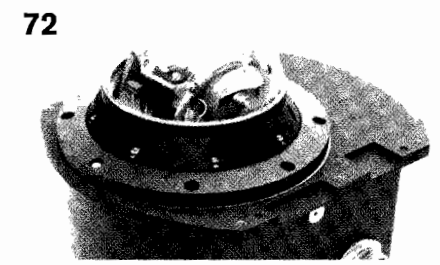

BY MARTIN STREETLY

60

66

72

Cover picture

A US soldier looks out from a watchtower in Kuwait. This month's cover feature explores how modern camp surveillance equipment has evolved to draw on a huge range of sensors and integration tools to provide unprecedented overwatch of bases and enable rapid response to incursions and attacks. (See page 60)

US Army: 1423538

Online content in IDR February

For extra stories and images throughout the month, log on to IDR's website at idr.janes.com
Online content is only available to online subscribers

- US Navy seeks airborne imaging RF surveillance solution
- US forges ahead with Aegis Ashore
- US GAO criticises Obama's European BMD policy
- New SeaFire radar enables engagement of multiple targets

Departments

INTERNATIONAL DEFENCE DIGEST 5

- MEADS achieves key milestones
- NATO narrows down on cloud computing

WEAPONS AND EQUIPMENT 10

- MDA mulls new ICBM interceptor options
- Thales' Bushmaster out of the running for Canada's TAPV
- UK/US ARTIST radar testbed achieves space tracking milestone on road to BMD

UPGRADE UPDATE 26

- US enhances Apache helicopters for low-light operations
- Aegis prepares for expanded capability in 2011

UNMANNED SYSTEMS 32

- Global Observer makes maiden hydrogen-fuelled flight

SPECIAL REPORTS 42-57

Penetrator material decision awaited for new Challenger 2 tank round

Future Protected Vehicle study turns up host of concepts and new technologies

Bringing up the rear in a big way: UGV dismount support

On patrol: USAF Strike Eagles flex for strike, ISR and anti-air roles in Afghanistan

Different FLAVIIR: UK's Demon UAV testbed advances 'flapless' flight

China's bridging systems extend support for heavy vehicles in combat

EQUIPMENT PROFILE 78

Dash to the line: flexibility and economy script a special mission success story

TECHNOLOGY REPORT 86

Chemical world: CBRN defence aims for portability and multipurpose systems

INTERVIEW 90

Dr Robert Brammer
Vice-President for Advanced Technology and Chief Technology Officer, Northrop Grumman Information Systems

DR ROBERT BRAMMER