

Features

On a roll: Turkey's armoured vehicles beat the export path 38

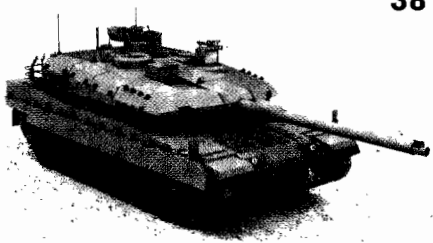

BY CHRISTOPHER F FOSS

Staying afloat: sea-basing plan still struggles to make first base 44

BY RICHARD SCOTT

Eastern approaches: Asia's next-generation fighter programmes 50

BY REUBEN F JOHNSON

38

44

50

er picture

is bucking the downward trend of other armoured manufacturing countries, having built up its facilities on upgrades and technology transfers to a stage Turkish industry now offers a wide array of armoured s. This month's cover feature examines some of those s in depth. (See page 38)

stockbyte: 140284

ne content in IDR May extra stories and images throughout the h, log on to IDR's website at idr.janes.com e content is only available to online subscribers

DA narrows down on SM-3 successor

- USAF's new SDB set for flight-testing
- U-2s to receive sensor enhancement
- ECF approaches first full test
- Cobham to supply NATO with C-IED equipment

Departments

INTERNATIONAL DEFENCE DIGEST 4

- Libya ops mark system debuts
- Political disputes could disrupt NATO missile defence plans
- Europe's MAJIC project expands ISR remit

WEAPONS AND EQUIPMENT 10

- Italy goes it alone with Vulcano
- British Army mulls casualty locator C4I system for troops in Afghanistan
- Europeans mull GMLRS mensuration shortfall

UPGRADE UPDATE 20

- Ukraine offers upgrade for BMP-1 infantry fighting vehicle
- South African Air Force receives first five upgraded Rooivalks
- UK integrates ASRAAM onto Tornado GR.4

UNMANNED SYSTEMS 25

- Global Observer UAV crashes during its longest flight test
- US Navy issues BAA for carrier-borne UAS
- Innocon and IMC Microwave team for UAV system exports

SPECIAL REPORTS 30-34

Leopard 2A7+ poised to strike as German Army enhancements pass trials

TRADOC looks to the commercial world for its future battle management tools

Integrating FOBs with the UK's future digitisation blueprint

EQUIPMENT PROFILE 56

Linking up the soldiers: Dominator in the field

TECHNOLOGY REPORT 60

Charting the course through virtual enemy territory

INTERVIEW 66

Brigadier Mike Hickson, Director Royal Logistic Corps, British Army