

FEATURES

22 | Harmonic Convergence

Rare alignment of national security objectives and commercial sector initiatives catapults space industry into new frontier

41 | Advance of the Drones

Delivery by drone matures in real-world testing, militaries work on attack drone problems, and South Korea tests surveillance UAVs

49 | Battle of the Heavyweights

Boeing and Sikorsky vie to provide Germany's next heavy helicopter

53 | U.S. Army Tech Contests

We provide detailed looks at the V-280 and SB-1 competing for the Joint Multi-Role Technology Demo and the powerplants contending for the Improved Turbine Engine Program

56 | Supply Chain Changeups

Boeing's master supplier deals, small suppliers are fighting to survive, Pentagon aims to replace F-35 parts-makers, Indian conglomerates eye defense contracts, and France courts India for next big fighter deal

PROPULSION

20 | Argonne National Laboratory takes on hypersonic test role

COMMERCIAL AVIATION

26 | New inspections and limits worsen Trent 1000 issues

27 | Southwest inflight engine failure prompts new FAA directive

28 | Putting quality over quantity, China considers fleet limits

29 | American Airlines goes all-in on ADS-B 'In' equipage

30 | OEMs and carriers strive to best exploit cabin space

31 | Wideroe embraces Embraer E2 to expand its repertoire

FAST 5

32 | Quebec minister defends C Series handoff to Airbus

MRO

33 | Aftermarket offers optimism, but labor shortage looms

DEFENSE

35 | Brazil's aerospace success prompts neighbors to follow

36 | China looks for traction with Latin American militaries

38 | U.S. Army rediscovers the importance of air defense

VIEWPOINT

66 | Why UK aerospace industry will outlast Brexit and other turmoil

ON THE COVER

Sikorsky's CH-53K King Stallion and Boeing's CH-47 Chinook face off to win Germany's STH heavy-lift helicopter program. London Bureau Chief Tony Osborne's report begins on page 49. CH-53K photo by a Lockheed Martin team of photographers including Thinh D. Nguye, Andrew McMurtrie and Damien A. Guarnieri; CH-47 photo by Tony Osborne.

Aviation Week publishes a digital edition every week. Read it at aviationweek.com.